

Conflict Mineral Policy

Kukdong Corporation shall be fully committed to complying with the Dodd–Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. (referred to as “Dodd–Frank Act.” here-after) thus making sure Kukdong global supply chain is managed and supervised in compliance with all requirements and instructions from the Dodd–Frank Act.

Conflict Mineral Policy

Kukdong Corp. hereby sets forth its conflict mineral policy to the effect that Kukdong will do its utmost to secure the transparency in its global supply chain practices concerning 3TG minerals (tantalum, tungsten, tin, and Gold) and will keep straining to prevent any illegal sourcing of the conflict mineral from Democratic Republic of the Congo and neighboring countries. To ensure that the conflict minerals that can help armed groups in the conflict region finance their warfare are not incorporated into the supply chain for manufacturing Kukdong products, Kukdong shall also make sure all its suppliers establish the conflict minerals policy and procedure along with conflict minerals usage survey and risk response plan, which also assists the suppliers to purchase the materials from the smelters free of conflict minerals. Kukdong intends to actively participate in international efforts of prohibiting the use of conflict minerals jointly with other vendors and its customers and fulfill its social responsibility to protect the human rights of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and adjoining countries.

Grounds for Kukdong's Conflict Minerals Management Policy

Conflict minerals refer to tantalum, tungsten, tin, and gold originated from the Democratic Republic of the Congo and its adjoining countries ("Covered Countries"). There have been great concerns of global society that the conflict minerals fund armed forces of the Covered Countries causing many deaths of their own people and infringement of human rights in the course of mineral excavation such as forced labor and abuse of women and children. In response to these concerns, the United States Congress enacted the Dodd–Frank Act. Section 1502 of the Dodd–Frank Act ("Conflict Minerals Rule") requires manufacturing companies listed in U.S. Stock exchange to disclose whether the products they manufacture or contract to manufacture contain conflict minerals. As a responsible corporate citizen, Kukdong's conflict mineral policy is to eliminate the use of conflict minerals contained in our products that directly or indirectly finance or benefit armed groups in the Covered Countries.
